
HOW TO DEAL WITH ANOMALIES

by Pierre Beaudry, 4/22/17

INTRODUCTION

The reason why some people have difficulties dealing with anomalies is because they observe them without having a clue as to what the basis for their observation should be about; that is, they are not looking for what's not there.

When you find an anomaly, either in physics, in the world strategic situation, or in artistic composition, I recommend you follow Einstein's advice, which is: "It is the theory which decides what can be observed." (Quoted by Roger Highfield and Paul Carter, The Private Lives of Albert Einstein, Macmillan, 1994.)

1. THE TURYSHEV SOLUTION TO THE PIONEER ANOMALY

"The effect is something like when you're driving a car and the photons from your headlights are pushing you backward, it is very subtle."

Slava G. Turyshev, Finding the Origin of the Pioneer Anomaly

There is a fascinating story about the anomaly of the Pioneer 10 and Pioneer 11 space probes which had been sent to travel across the Solar System during the 1980's, and which were discovered to be on a changed trajectory nearly a decade after their launch. After having travelled at a constant velocity of more than 25,000 mph toward the outer-edge of the Solar System, the two probes were observed slowing down without any apparent reason.

Decades ago, a brilliant young Russian physicist, Slava G. Turyshev, started working on that anomaly and investigated all possible hypotheses, including so-called “dark matter,” extra-dimensional forces which were predicted by string theory, and even the possibility of a “new physics” which would have put into question Einstein’s gravitational inverse-square law of general relativity. Turyshev was looking for something that never existed before. He was looking for what is not there.

After decades of unsuccessful research, Turyshev visited with the retired head of NASA’s Jet Propulsion Laboratory, John Anderson, to discuss how the anomaly could have been caused by “the possibility that the anomalous acceleration of the Pioneer 10 and 11 spacecraft is due to the recoil force associated with an anisotropic emission of thermal radiation off the vehicles.” Turyshev had discovered that “once the thermal recoil force is properly accounted for, no anomalous acceleration remains.” (Support for the thermal origin of the Pioneer anomaly, April, 11, 2012.)

The beauty of the discovery that Turyshev had made implied that the Pioneer Anomaly, like many similar anomalies in other fields, can be resolved by the rigorous internal consideration of one's own mental boundary conditions. In other words, the way to understand the nature of anomalies is to bring the human mind to its axiomatic limit and to investigate rigorously all underlying assumptions.

2. THE SYRIA BOMBING ANOMALY

For example, take the case of the current world strategic situation, as it is being set up by Chatham House. Ask yourself the question: "What is the Syria Bombing Anomaly? What is the significance of the Royal Institute of International Affairs (Chatham House) call for World War III based on the American Syria Bombing Anomaly?" The recent LPAC report on this matter is crucial to understand. The LaRouche report stated the British threat as follows:

"British Foreign Secretary Boris Johnson on Tuesday urged a U.S./UK joint campaign of bombing to "decapitate the monster regime of Assad" in Syria. Johnson's interview with the London Independent followed by three days the April 16 London Times forecasting an all-out U.S. cruise missile attack on North Korea; and coincided with the April 19 London Guardian reporting today that the United States is planning to shoot down North Korean missile tests." (UK Keeps Pushing War on Trump — Even World War — To Set U.S. Against Russia and China.)

Why is this British coup against President Trump going to fail? Because it is the Trump administration which has created this very ill-advised Syrian anomaly; and therefore, it is the Trump administration which must be responsible for the outcome. Therefore, think of the following possibility for a moment. What if Trump should go past the 180 degrees mark and turn in his policy against Syria around to go full circle? This could show how British Intelligence was directly involved in running Islamic terrorism world-wide. What if Trump were to simply wait for the second British shoe to drop, for instance, in France? The way to figure out the answer to this “What if...” is to ask the following two questions:

1. How could the Syrian forces have dropped poisoned gas by aerial bombing, when every military officer in the world knows that such gases can only be delivered by artillery shell-fire?

2. When the Americans attacked the base in Chayrat, why were the US Tomahawk missiles not countered automatically by Russian S-400 anti-missile missiles?

I don't know if people will be able to decipher this anomaly, but if the reader can answer those two questions, then, the Syrian Bombing Anomaly will no longer exist. And, that will leave us with only the British threat to deal with.

3. THE TRUMP-FILLON ANOMALY

On February 11, 2017, Thierry Meyssan of VoltaireNet.org took a look at the press which was attacking both Donald Trump and François Fillon, because they represented a common threat against the same interests. Indeed, although the two leaders represent two completely different ideologies, they have the same enemy: Imperialism. This is an anomaly that very few people have taken under consideration.

The reason for this anomaly is that both Fillon and Trump are against the Islamic State (Daesh) and are friendly with Russia. That was a sufficient reason for the British to go after both Fillon and Trump, simultaneously. Remember what Fillon said in his campaign speech against the MI6-controlled Muslim Brotherhood and Daesh:

"I want strict administrative control of the Muslim Religion, as long as its anchoring into the French Republic is not fully accomplished. I want the dissolution of all the movements that claim to follow Salafism, and also the Muslim Brotherhood. [...]"

"Well, in order to win this war, it will take a lot of effort and we will need a lot of allies. And among these allies, Russia, which continues to be sanctioned while it is the Islamic state [Daesh] that we must overcome together." (Quoted from <http://www.voltairenet.org/article195234.html>)

I would like to remind the reader that what Trump and Fillon have in common is that, during their respective campaigns, they both wanted to put an end to imperialism and an end to war.

4. THE SARIN GAS ANOMALY

According to MIT Professor, Ted Postal, the lying White House Report (WHR) about the alleged nerve gas attack in Khan Shaykhun, Syria, on April 4, 2017, has been shown to be based on a fabrication, which a single shadow projected on the wall of Plato's Cave can easily restore to the truth. Observe the angle of the man's shadow in Figure 2.

Are you looking for what is not there? Since the Sun's angle shows the time to be 10 o'clock in the morning of April 4, 2017; that is, only 4 hours after the alleged Sarin Gas bombing, the man standing at the crater should be dead or at least very severely affected by the remains of the alleged gas release. Need I say more than what the image is telling us about what is not there?
